

Broughton Today

Today, Broughton is a vibrant, multi-cultural, urban, and outstanding public high school. Serving approximately 2,100 students, Broughton is a Global Studies and Language Immersion Magnet school. It is a top-tier Nationally Certified Demonstration-Level Magnet School and a Magnet Schools of America School of Distinction. In addition to our standard and honors level graduation requirement courses, Broughton offers students the opportunity to take the following courses on a yearlong schedule, attending eight classes with four classes per day on an alternating A and B day schedule.

Dr. Elena Ashburn was selected as the “North Carolina 2021-2022 Principal of The Year”. She is the only principal from the Wake County Public School System to have achieved this honor.

Broughton High School was named a “2022 National Magnet School of Excellence”. This is the highest annual award given to magnet schools.
